

Director Garo Berberian's 'Taniel' wins the Best Short Film award at a prestigious Hollywood festival

8 November 2018

"Taniel", - a beautiful, dramatic and poetic film about the last months of Armenian poet Taniel Varoujan, has followed up its two awards in Bermuda with Best Short recognition at ARPA, one of Hollywood's oldest film festivals, presenting 47 films from 17 countries. "This is a great honour to get recognition in the home of the movie industry" said British director Garo Berberian after his win in Los Angeles, "We have had a wonderful reception screening globally from Washington to Sydney and are very much looking forward to our next screening for AGBU at the prestigious Lincoln centre in New York on the 16th November".

The film was produced by London based Rebel Republic Films who are currently developing a feature film "The Italian Girl", based on one of Britain's great authors, Iris Murdoch's book.
